NATIONAL BUREAU OF STANDARDS

The National Bureau of Standards¹ was established by an act of Congress on March 3, 1901. The Bureau's overall goal is to strengthen and advance the Nation's science and technology and facilitate their effective application for public benefit. To this end, the Bureau conducts research and provides: (1) a basis for the Nation's physical measurement system, (2) scientific and technological services for industry and government, (3) a technical basis for equity in trade, and (4) technical services to promote public safety. The Bureau's technical work is performed by the National Measurement Laboratory, the National Engineering Laboratory, and the Institute for Computer Sciences and Technology.

THE NATIONAL MEASUREMENT LABORATORY provides the national system of physical and chemical and materials measurement; coordinates the system with measurement systems of other nations and furnishes essential services leading to accurate and uniform physical and chemical measurement throughout the Nation's scientific community, industry, and commerce; conducts materials research leading to improved methods of measurement, standards, and data on the properties of materials needed by industry, commerce, educational institutions, and Government; provides advisory and research services to other Government agencies; develops, produces, and distributes Standard Reference Materials; and provides calibration services. The Laboratory consists of the following centers:

Absolute Physical Quantities² — Radiation Research — Chemical Physics —
Analytical Chemistry — Materials Science

THE NATIONAL ENGINEERING LABORATORY provides technology and technical services to the public and private sectors to address national needs and to solve national problems; conducts research in engineering and applied science in support of these efforts; builds and maintains competence in the necessary disciplines required to carry out this research and technical service; develops engineering data and measurement capabilities; provides engineering measurement traceability services; develops test methods and proposes engineering standards and code changes; develops and proposes new engineering practices; and develops and improves mechanisms to transfer results of its research to the ultimate user. The Laboratory consists of the following centers:

Applied Mathematics — Electronics and Electrical Engineering² — Manufacturing Engineering — Building Technology — Fire Research — Chemical Engineering²

THE INSTITUTE FOR COMPUTER SCIENCES AND TECHNOLOGY conducts research and provides scientific and technical services to aid Federal agencies in the selection, acquisition, application, and use of computer technology to improve effectiveness and economy in Government operations in accordance with Public Law 89-306 (40 U.S.C. 759), relevant Executive Orders, and other directives; carries out this mission by managing the Federal Information Processing Standards Program, developing Federal ADP standards guidelines, and managing Federal participation in ADP voluntary standardization activities; provides scientific and technological advisory services and assistance to Federal agencies; and provides the technical foundation for computer-related policies of the Federal Government. The Institute consists of the following centers:

Programming Science and Technology — Computer Systems Engineering.

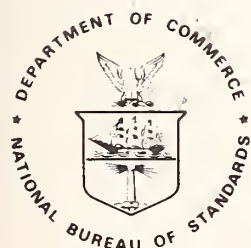

¹Headquarters and Laboratories at Gaithersburg, MD, unless otherwise noted; mailing address Washington, DC 20234.

²Some divisions within the center are located at Boulder, CO 80303.

FOREWORD

The 272 international and regional organizations listed in this directory conduct standardization, certification, laboratory accreditation or other standards-related activities. This volume describes their work in these areas, as well as each organization's scope of activity and the national affiliations of members. It also lists the names and addresses of U.S. participants.

This volume summarizes an effort by the National Bureau of Standards to obtain information relevant to monitoring U.S. participation in the many international organizations active in standardization. It is designed to serve the needs of Federal agencies and standards writers for information on international and regional organizations. Manufacturers, engineers, purchasing agents, and others may also find this volume of value.

Dr. Stanley I. Warshaw
Director, Office of Product Standards
Policy

ACKNOWLEDGMENTS

I would like to acknowledge the contributions of Sophie Chumas and the late Bill Slattery in initially identifying international and regional organizations for inclusion in the directory.

I would also like to thank Patricia Healand, Shirley Schrimsher, and Sharon Howard for their long efforts in preparing this volume for publication.

ABSTRACT

This directory contains information on 272 international and regional organizations which conduct standardization, certification, laboratory accreditation, or other standards-related activities. This volume describes their work in these areas, as well as the scope of each organization, national affiliations of members, U.S. participants, restrictions on membership, as well as the availability of any standards in English.

This volume summarizes an effort by the National Bureau of Standards to obtain information relevant to monitoring U.S. participation in the many international organizations active in standardization. It is designed to serve the needs of Federal agencies and standards writers for information on international and regional organizations involved in standardization and related activities. It may also be useful to manufacturers, engineers, purchasing agents, and others.

Key words: certification; international organizations; international standardization; international standards organizations; laboratory accreditation; metrology; organizational directory; standardization; standards.

INTRODUCTION

Background

International standards and implementing actions, the importance of which have only recently been recognized, are intended to affect the flow of goods among nations. In the late 1960's, a multi-national working group of the General Agreement on Tariffs and Trade (GATT)* began to draft an agreement regarding the use of standards and certification systems in international trade. This effort was transferred to the Tokyo Round of the Multilateral Trade Negotiations (MTN) in 1975. These negotiations led to the Agreement on Technical Barriers to Trade, which entered into force on January 1, 1980. Title IV of the U.S. Trade Agreements Act of 1979 implemented the United States' responsibilities under this Agreement.

The Agreement encourages signatories to participate in international standards organizations with a view towards harmonizing individual countries' technical regulations. The Trade Agreements Act (TAA) of 1979 assigns to the Department of Commerce the responsibility of assuring that U.S. participation in such organizations is adequate to represent U.S. interests.

The National Bureau of Standards has developed this directory as part of its responsibilities under the TAA. It seeks to identify organizations involved in standards development, certification, laboratory accreditation, and related activities, and which have identified themselves through their organizational titles as being international or regional in character or which have been thus referred to in other international and regional organizational directories. Another purpose is to identify those organizations which are open to U.S. participation and, for each such, whether or not the U.S. is represented.

Organizations such as the American Society of Mechanical Engineers, the American Society for Testing and Materials, the British Standards Institution, the Canadian Standards Association, and Deutsches Institut fur Normung produce standards which may be used in many parts of the world, but have designated themselves by title as national organizations; they have not been listed herein. However, further information on organizations located in the U.S. is contained in a companion volume to this directory, SP 417 United States Standardization Activities. That volume, last issued in 1975, is to be updated for publication later this year.

The information in this directory was obtained from responses to a questionnaire which was sent to more than 700 organizations listed in NBS files or in available international and regional organizational directories as likely loci for standards-related activities. Follow-up letters were sent to organizations which did not respond to the initial inquiry. Approximately 450 organizations supplied information on their activities; 272 of these organizations are concerned with standards-related activities. NBS would appreciate receiving information on other organizations which should be included in any updated or expanded version of this directory.

The information in this directory should be useful to government agencies engaged in setting standards or in other trade-related fields, and may also be of interest to voluntary standards writers, manufacturing firms, exporters, and others concerned with international trade.

DESCRIPTION OF ENTRIES

NAME:	Official organizational names in English, French, Spanish, German Portuguese, Italian, and Scandinavian languages as indicated by the organization. Unofficial English names are provided if there is no official English title.
ACRONYM:	The initials or acronym(s) of the organization.
AFFILIATES:	Parent organizations or other organizations with special ties as noted by the listed organizations in their responses.
ADDRESS, TELEX, TELEPHONE, CABLE:	The address, telex, telephone and cable numbers at which the organizations have indicated that they can be reached.
SCOPE:	The principal objectives of the organizations as indicated in their response or in supplementary material published by the organization.
STANDARDIZATION ACTIVITIES:	Organizational activities concerned with the research, development, harmonization, or promotion of standardization. Areas of involvement are indicated where available.
CERTIFICATION ACTIVITIES:	Organizational activities for the certification of products.
LABORATORY ACCREDITATION ACTIVITIES:	Organizational activities for the assessment of a laboratory's competency.
OTHER RELATED ACTIVITIES:	Cooperative efforts with other organizations, the development of weights and measures, the development of reference materials, and other activities not included above.
LIBRARY/INFORMATION ACTIVITIES:	Organizational publications, informational centers, information exchange activities, and the development of industry statistics.
U.S. MEMBER(S):	The names and addresses of any official U.S. member representatives or other members which are U.S. citizens.
TYPE OF MEMBERSHIP:	The type of membership held by U.S. member(s), as defined by the organization.
OTHER MEMBER COUNTRIES:	Countries having official representation in the organization, or in which members are located.
OTHER INFORMATION:	Availability of standards in English, restrictions on who may hold membership in member countries, or other pertinent information.

NAME: African Regional Organization for Standardization
Organization Regionale Africaine de Normalisation

ACRONYM: ARSO, ORAN

AFFILIATES: African Intergovernmental Organization

ADDRESS: P. O. Box 57363
NAIROBI, Kenya

TELEX: 22097 ARSO
TELEPHONE: 24561 & 24190
CABLE: ARSO, NAIROBI

SCOPE:

- o To promote standardization activities in Africa.
- o To promote the harmonization of the views of its members and their contribution and participation at the international level in the field of standardization.
- o To elaborate regional standards.
- o To promote social, industrial, and economic development and provide consumer protection and human safety by advocating and establishing activities concerning standardization in Africa.

STANDARDIZATION
ACTIVITIES: Is involved in harmonizing standards among African countries and elaborating regional standards for Africa. High priority areas will include engineering, transport and communications, textiles, agriculture and forestry, food, pharmaceuticals, natural resource and the environment.

CERTIFICATION
ACTIVITIES: Is planning to promote and coordinate a regional quality control and certification marking scheme in Africa in connection with products for which ARSO standards have been developed and to work towards reciprocal, multilateral recognition of the certification marks of member bodies.

OTHER RELATED
ACTIVITIES:

- o Promotes and co-ordinates metrology activities in Africa.
- o Promotes the exchange of experts and information, co-operation in the training of personnel in standardization and the use of laboratory and research facilities.
- o Co-ordinates the views of its members at the ISO, IEC, OIML and other international organizations concerned with standardization, quality control, certification marking and metrology.
- o Provides services relating to standardization and allied matters to the members of the Organization.

US MEMBER(S):

Not open to U.S.

OTHER MEMBER COUNTRIES:

Egypt, Ethiopia, Ghana, Ivory Coast, Kenya, Liberia, Guinea, Libyan Arab Jamahiriya, Malawi, Mauritius, Nigeria, Niger, Senegal, Sudan, Togo, Tunisia, Cameroon, Tanzania, Uganda, Upper Volta, Zambia, Zaire, Guinea-Bissau.

OTHER INFORMATION:

1. Are standards available in English? NO - Standards not yet published.
2. Is membership restricted to official representatives of member countries? YES
3. ARSO is considering the establishment of an ARSO Documentation and Information System (ARSO-DIS) on standards and standards related activities in the region to be linked with various national and international information systems.

TELEPHONE: (33 1) 567-55-78

CABLE: SPACEUROPE

SCOPE: To provide for and to promote, for exclusively peaceful purposes, cooperation among European States in space research and technology and their space applications, with a view toward their being used for scientific purposes and for operational space applications systems. This will be achieved:

- o by elaborating and implementing a long-term European space policy, by recommending space objectives to the member states, and by coordinating the policies of the member states with respect to other national and international organizations and institutions;
- o by elaborating and implementing activities and programs in the space field;
- o by coordinating the European space program and national programs, and by integrating the latter progressively and as completely as possible into the European space program, in particular the development of applications satellites;
- o by elaborating and implementing the industrial policy appropriate to its program and by recommending a coherent industrial policy to the member states.

STANDARDIZATION
ACTIVITIES:

Standards, guidelines and codes of practice are provided or are under development by ESA for use in the European aerospace industry, applicable to space systems and equipment and directly associated ground support equipment.

In the area of design requirements for space equipment, the subjects covered include:

- environmental performance and interfaces
- mechanical performance and interfaces
- thermal performance and interfaces
- electrical performance and interfaces
- power supply interfaces
- provisions for testing.

In the area of performance requirements for selected reusable space equipment, the subjects include:

- electromagnetic compatibility requirements
- software design
- telemetry and telecommand format and coding
- on-board data handling and signal interfaces
- r.f. transponder characteristics.

In the area of product assurance requirements for spacecraft:

- design assurance
- quality assurance
- materials and processes
- electronic, mechanical and electromechanical parts
- safety.

LIBRARY/INFORMATION
ACTIVITIES:

ESA has a library and a computerized interactive Information Retrieval System.
ADDRESS: Same

ACTIVITIES:

ESA places development and study contracts with European industry and consultants based on the use of existing standards and for the study and establishment of possible standards, guidelines and codes of practice for use by ESA in the future. ESA also coordinates with national agencies in Europe to obtain European recognition of ESA standards. ESA is also involved in the calibration of electronic measuring instruments referring to the standards of frequency, voltage, and resistance and the calibration of dimensional and optical measuring equipment - all of which are traceable to the Dutch Bureau of Standards.

SCOPE: IAEA has an agreement giving it responsibility within the United Nations for international activities concerned with the peaceful uses of atomic energy. It seeks to develop the use of atomic energy for non-military purposes.

STANDARDIZATION RELATED
ACTIVITIES:

IAEA has four sections which deal with standards and related activities: radiological safety, nuclear safety, dosimetry and laboratories. In addition, IAEA has an Analytical Quality Control Services (AQCS) group which provides related services to U.N. members. The activities of each of these entities is described below:

STANDARDIZATION ACTIVITIES OF THE RADIOLOGICAL SAFETY
SECTION: Develops standards for the safe transport of radioactive materials. These standards are mandatory for the IAEA's own activities and are recommended for adoption by Member States and international organizations. It also collects and analyzes data on the transportation of radioactive materials throughout the world and cooperates with other international transport organizations in part to promote standardization of administrative forms and shipping papers.

STANDARDIZATION ACTIVITIES OF THE NUCLEAR SAFETY
SECTION: Develops nuclear safety standards for adoption by member states regarding the siting, design operation and quality assurance systems for thermal neutron nuclear power plants.

LABORATORY ACCREDITATION ACTIVITIES OF THE DOSIMETRY SECTION: Holds the technical secretariat of IAEA/WHO's Network of Secondary Standard Dosimetry Laboratories (SSDLs). It recognizes Secondary Standard Dosimetry Laboratories for membership in the Network. The National Bureau of Standards is an affiliated member of the SSDL Network in the U.S.

STANDARDIZATION ACTIVITIES OF THE LABORATORIES SECTION: Develops standards for radiation protection for adoption by Member States and international organizations. It also conducts intercomparisons of the results of radiochemical and trace element analysis and is involved in the metrology of radionuclides.

QUALITY CONTROL ACTIVITIES OF THE AQCS: AQCS enables laboratories engaged in the analysis of nuclear materials to check the quality of their work by distributing certified reference materials and samples for intercomparisons.

US MEMBER (S): U.S. Delegation to the United Nations includes the Environmental Protection Agency and the Dept. of Energy.

TYPE OF MEMBERSHIP: The U.S. is a member state.

SCOPE: IOOC is the intergovernmental, international organization entrusted with the administration of the International Olive Oil Agreement. IOOC seeks to:

- o promote international cooperation on problems created in general by the world olive and olive oil economy;
- o facilitate research/development activities and modernization of both olive-cultivation and the olive oil industry by means of a) technical and scientific programming and b) technology transfers to improve both the trees' productivity per area unit and the quality of products obtained from the olive;
- o facilitate application of measures to harmoniously develop production, consumption and international trade while ensuring the essential state of balance between production and consumption and attempting to reduce handicaps entailed by fluctuating supplies;
- o forestall any possible unfair competition;
- o facilitate coordination of production and marketing policies as well as organization of the olive oil market; improve market access and reliable supplies as well as market structures and marketing, distribution and transport systems; improve informative and consumption processes;
- o facilitate implementation of measures required for the other products obtained from the olive; study the olive oil industry's situation from the viewpoint of its relations with environment.

STANDARDIZATION
ACTIVITIES:

IIOC implements standards regarding designations of origin and indications of source trade standards covering table olives; cooperates with ISO on the standardization of olive cultivation and oil extraction equipment; promotes the use of model standard contracts; as well as being involved in related activities.

CERTIFICATION

TELEX: 660870 - SVP SERV. Code 1103

TELEPHONE: (1) 878-12-82 or 285-27-11

SCOPE: OIML is an intergovernmental (treaty) organization created in 1955 to harmonize and coordinate on an international level the administrative and technical regulations of measurements and measuring instruments issued in various countries and thereby facilitate free commerce between countries, not only of measuring instruments but of all commodities and services which involve measurements.

The work plans of OIML are decided by common agreement within a steering committee called the International Committee of Legal Metrology (CML) in which each member country has one representative designated by its government. International Recommendations are developed through technical committees (Pilot Secretariats) and subcommittees (Reporting Secretariats). In the work of OIML, legal metrology is given the widest interpretation and concerns most fields of applied metrology.

The International Conference of Legal Metrology, composed of delegates from member nations, meets at least every six years (usually every four) to give final approval of draft International Recommendations which, when adopted, impose an obligation on member nations to exert best efforts in harmonizing existing national regulations with those contained in Recommendations.

STANDARDIZATION
ACTIVITIES: OIML develops International Recommendations on measurement and measuring instruments and International Documents of an informative kind.

LIBRARY/INFORMATION
ACTIVITIES:

The general secretariat serves as a documentation center for its members; edits a periodical, "Bulletin de l'Organisation Internationale de Metrologie Legale", and also International Recommendations and Documents, when approved.

SCOPE:

- o To serve as the specialized international agency for standardization.
- o To promote world-wide agreement on International Standards with a view to the expansion of trade, the improvement of quality, the increase of productivity and the lowering of costs.

STANDARDIZATION
ACTIVITIES:

ISO has over 4,500 active standards which cover all areas except electrical and electronic engineering. The work is carried out by delegations appointed by the national member bodies and divided among (at present) 168 technical committees. There is a formal liaison procedure with other international organizations and ISO has Category 1 consultative status with the United Nations Economic and Social Council (ECOSOC).

CERTIFICATION
ACTIVITIES:

CERTICO, a subunit of ISO, has the following functions:

- o To study the means of securing greater mutual acceptance of the validity of national and regional certification systems and marks, as ensuring conformity with standards specifying the functions and properties of products, particularly when safety, health or environmental factors are involved and the definition of the rules and procedures necessary for securing a widening matrix of such agreements, recognizing that the use of national certification systems and marks as a protective measure will thereby be reduced.

- o To keep under review the development of national and regional systems so that, when in the future a need arises, progress can be made towards certification to ISO International Standards and, in the meantime, to study how to protect the ISO Mark so that it can be used in future as a mark of conformity to standards.
- o To examine how to control the use of ISO International Standards in certification systems. Inter alia, it will, in consequence, be necessary to study means for ensuring mutual acceptability of test houses and inspection bodies, and appropriate appeal arrangements.

OTHER RELATED
ACTIVITIES:

ISO has established a special committee, REMCO, to develop guidelines, definitions and related documentation to assist in making use of reference materials in standards and standards-related documents. It has so far produced three key publications: ISO Guide 30 Terms and definitions used in connection with reference materials, ISO Guide 31 The contents of certificates of reference materials, and the ISO Directory of certified reference materials. The latter is an English-French guide to sources of certified reference materials throughout the world, with materials classified according to domain and with notes on specific uses of each.

ACRONYM: NEA, AEN

AFFILIATES: Parent Organization: OECD

ADDRESS: 38, boulevard Suchet
75016 PARIS
France

TELEX: 630.668 AEN/NEA

TELEPHONE: 524-8200

SCOPE: To promote cooperation between its member countries on the safety and regulatory aspects of nuclear activities. In this context, the Agency's role is to contribute to the promotion, by the responsible national authorities, of the protection of workers and the public against the hazards of ionizing radiations and of the preservation of the environment. For this purpose, the Agency encourages elaboration and harmonization of national laws and regulations with regard to the protection of public health and the prevention of accidents in the nuclear industry.

STANDARDIZATION
ACTIVITIES:

Radiation protection standards have been set up within NEA and are mainly intended to protect workers in nuclear installations. These standards are based on the recommendations of the International Commission on Radiological Protection (ICRP). They were first adopted in 1959 and have since been subject to several revisions. The standards currently applicable were prepared in 1981 jointly with IAEA, WHO, and ILO, based on ICRP recommendations published in 1977. The standards form the basis of national laws for the protection of both workers in the nuclear industry and the general public against the hazards of ionizing radiations.

NAME: Oil Companies' International Study Group for Conservation of Clean Air and Water in Europe

ACRONYM: CONCAWE

ADDRESS: Koningin Julianaplein 30
2595 AA THE HAGUE
Netherlands

TELEX: 31005 c/o SIPM THE HAGUE
Netherlands

TELEPHONE: (070) 47-54-94

CABLE: CONCAWE THE HAGUE

SCOPE: CONCAWE - the oil companies' international study group for the conservation of clean air and water in Europe
- was established in 1963. Participation is open to any crude oil refining company operating in Western Europe.

CONCAWE's main objective is to study environmental conservation in relation to oil processing, handling and use in Europe, including matters relating to human health. To achieve this, CONCAWE develops programs for the:

- o collection and dissemination to participants of scientific, technical and legislative information from sources throughout the world;
- o promotion of co-operation between participants on technical matters within the scope of the above objective;
- o acquisition of knowledge concerning causes and effects of pollution, and techniques for their abatement;
- o presentation of the results of its studies to participants, authorities, and the public in general, with particular reference to international and inter-governmental organizations concerned with environmental legislation.

STANDARDIZATION
ACTIVITIES:

CONCAWE produces reports on various sampling/analysis/labelling methods with a view towards increased harmonization within the European oil industry.

LIBRARY/INFORMATION
ACTIVITIES:

CONCAWE has special library activities.
ADDRESS: Same

- US MEMBER (S): Membership is only open to companies who have oil refining capacity in Europe.
- OTHER MEMBER COUNTRIES: CONCAWE has 27 participants which represent almost 80% of the OECD Europe refining capacity.
- OTHER INFORMATION:
1. Are standards available in English? YES
 2. Is membership restricted to official representatives of member countries? NO
 3. CONCAWE projects are grouped within the following fields of activity:
 - air protection
 - health (occupational medicine/toxicology/industrial hygiene)
 - noise control
 - oil pipelines
 - oil spill clean-up technology
 - petroleum products handling
 - water protection, including refinery waste disposal.

While the work of CONCAWE tended to concentrate initially on environmental problems as identified by the European oil refining industry, increasing attention has also been paid in more recent years to the demands of European environmental legislation and the requirements of the law-making bodies. In this respect CONCAWE studies and reports can provide a sound scientific basis on which to work.

NAME: Organization of American States
 Organizacion de los Estados Americanos

 Organiza  o dos Estados Americanos

ACRONYM: OAS or OEA

AFFILIATES: Within the U.N., the Organization of American States is a regional agency.

ADDRESS: 17th Street and Constitution Avenue, N.W.
 Washington, D.C. 20006

TELEX: 440-118-OAS (International)
 89503 (Domestic)

SCOPE: To strengthen the peace and security of the Continent; prevent possible causes of difficulties and ensure pacific settlement of disputes that may arise among member states; provide for common action on the part of those States in the event of aggression; seek the solution of political juridical and economic problems that may arise among them; promote, by cooperative action, their economic, social and cultural development.

STANDARDIZATION
 ACTIVITIES: The Organization serves its members on two levels, the policy level and operational level. On policy, acts as a forum for consultation and negotiation of Inter-American agreements on collective and national efforts toward peacekeeping, the defense of Human Rights, and economic, social and cultural development. On the operational level, the emphasis of technical assistance is increasingly on national planning, reinforced by regional and Inter-American, and other multilateral cooperation.

LIBRARY/INFORMATION
 ACTIVITIES: One of its major public facilities is the library of the OAS. The Columbus Memorial Library contains more than 200,000 catalogued volumes, 2,900 current periodicals, and publications of the OAS and its specialized organizations, as well as a large collection of photographs. All these are used extensively by researchers. "Americas" monthly magazine on Inter-American Affairs, issued in English, Spanish and Portuguese is one of the official publications of the Organization of American States. Special Reports, surveys, and booklets on Inter-American travel, economy, law, education, social problems and other themes of interest are regularly distributed by the General Secretariat at nominal prices. 3.3 ORGANIZATIONAL INDEX BY SUBJECT

This is a subject index of key words extracted from the summaries of the names, scopes and activities of organizations included in this directory. The page numbers for organizations involved in a broad range of standards-related activities and not specifying particular product areas in their summaries are listed under "Standardization-General." Page numbers refer to the page on which the summary begins.

11. ABSTRACT (A 200-word or less factual summary of most significant information. If document includes a significant bibliography or literature survey, mention it here) This directory contains information on 272 international and regional organizations which conduct standardization, certification, laboratory accreditation, or other standards-related activities. This volume describes their work in these areas, as well as the scope of each organization, national affiliations of members, U.S. participants, restrictions on membership, as well as the availability of any standards in English. This volume summarizes an effort by the National Bureau of Standards to obtain information relevant to monitoring U.S. participation in the many international organizations active in standardization. It is designed to serve the needs of Federal agencies and standards writers for information on international and regional organizations involved in standardization and related activities. It may also be useful to manufacturers, engineers, purchasing agents, and others.

NBS TECHNICAL PUBLICATIONS

PERIODICALS

JOURNAL OF RESEARCH—The Journal of Research of the National Bureau of Standards reports NBS research and development in those disciplines of the physical and engineering sciences in which the Bureau is active. These include physics, chemistry, engineering, mathematics, and computer sciences. Papers cover a broad range of subjects, with major emphasis on measurement methodology and the basic technology underlying standardization. Also included from time to time are survey articles on topics closely related to the Bureau's technical and scientific programs. As a special service to subscribers each issue contains complete citations to all recent Bureau publications in both NBS and non-NBS media. Issued six times a year. Annual subscription: domestic $18; foreign $22.50. Single copy, $5.50 domestic; $6.90 foreign.

NONPERIODICALS

Monographs—Major contributions to the technical literature on various subjects related to the Bureau's scientific and technical activities.

Handbooks—Recommended codes of engineering and industrial practice (including safety codes) developed in cooperation with interested industries, professional organizations, and regulatory bodies.

Special Publications—Include proceedings of conferences sponsored by NBS, NBS annual reports, and other special publications appropriate to this grouping such as wall charts, pocket cards, and bibliographies.

Applied Mathematics Series—Mathematical tables, manuals, and studies of special interest to physicists, engineers, chemists, biologists, mathematicians, computer programmers, and others engaged in scientific and technical work.

National Standard Reference Data Series—Provides quantitative data on the physical and chemical properties of materials, compiled from the world's literature and critically evaluated. Developed under a worldwide program coordinated by NBS under the authority of the National Standard Data Act (Public Law 90-396).

NOTE: The principal publication outlet for the foregoing data is the Journal of Physical and Chemical Reference Data (JPCRD) published quarterly for NBS by the American Chemical Society (ACS) and the American Institute of Physics (AIP). Subscriptions, reprints, and supplements available from ACS, 1155 Sixteenth St., NW, Washington, DC 20056.

Building Science Series—Disseminates technical information developed at the Bureau on building materials, components, systems, and whole structures. The series presents research results, test methods, and performance criteria related to the structural and environmental functions and the durability and safety characteristics of building elements and systems.

Technical Notes—Studies or reports which are complete in themselves but restrictive in their treatment of a subject. Analogous to monographs but not so comprehensive in scope or definitive in treatment of the subject area. Often serve as a vehicle for final reports of work performed at NBS under the sponsorship of other government agencies.

Voluntary Product Standards—Developed under procedures published by the Department of Commerce in Part 10, Title 15, of the Code of Federal Regulations. The standards establish nationally recognized requirements for products, and provide all concerned interests with a basis for common understanding of the characteristics of the products. NBS administers this program as a supplement to the activities of the private sector standardizing organizations.

Consumer Information Series—Practical information, based on NBS research and experience, covering areas of interest to the consumer. Easily understandable language and illustrations provide useful background knowledge for shopping in today's technological marketplace.

Order the above NBS publications from: Superintendent of Documents, Government Printing Office, Washington, DC 20402.

Order the following NBS publications—FIPS and NBSIR's—from the National Technical Information Service, Springfield, VA 22161.

Federal Information Processing Standards Publications (FIPS PUB)—Publications in this series collectively constitute the Federal Information Processing Standards Register. The Register serves as the official source of information in the Federal Government regarding standards issued by NBS pursuant to the Federal Property and Administrative Services Act of 1949 as amended, Public Law 89-306 (79 Stat. 1127), and as implemented by Executive Order 11717 (38 FR 12315, dated May 11, 1973) and Part 6 of Title 15 CFR (Code of Federal Regulations).

NBS Interagency Reports (NBSIR)—A special series of interim or final reports on work performed by NBS for outside sponsors (both government and non-government). In general, initial distribution is handled by the sponsor; public distribution is by the National Technical Information Service, Springfield, VA 22161, in paper copy or microfiche form.
